

ESTATES - PLAN COVERAGE

A. ESTATE ADMINISTRATION

When a person dies many matters must be attended to and many laws govern the way in which the deceased's estate is administered. The following will help you to understand what is involved and the coverage provided by your Legal Services Plan:

1. Estate Trustee's Work

The "estate trustee" (also called the "executor" or "administrator" or "personal representative") is responsible for all matters relating to the estate.

The estate trustee's work includes making funeral arrangements, obtaining the death certificate, advising others of the death, applying for benefits payable on death, locating the will, locating and notifying beneficiaries, locating and valuing assets and debts, investing estate funds, ensuring the safekeeping of estate assets, settling debts, maintaining estate accounts for approval by beneficiaries or examination by the court, reporting to beneficiaries, paying beneficiaries, filing tax returns and paying taxes.

All of the above duties are the responsibility of the estate trustee; they are not legal services. However, many estate trustees delegate these functions to a lawyer, an accountant, a trust company and/or other providers, who will charge separately for these administrative services.

Plan Coverage For Estate Trustee's Work Delegated To A Lawyer

If the estate trustee or the deceased (at the date of death) is (or was) an eligible Plan Participant, the Plan provides a "referral benefit" only, which means that if you (as estate trustee) so choose and if available, the Plan will refer you to a Staff Lawyer or a Co-operating Lawyer, either of whom will only charge you in accordance with the current Plan fee schedule rate of $110.00 per hour ($55.00 per hour for non-lawyer staff).

If you use any lawyer who has not contracted with the Plan to provide services ("non-co-operating lawyer") you will pay whatever rate you have negotiated with that lawyer.

In all cases disbursements, court filing fees and taxes are your responsibility.

2. Lawyer's Work

The lawyer provides advice and legal services to the estate trustee (also called the "executor" or "administrator" or "personal representative").

The lawyer's work includes explaining the duties of an estate trustee; interpreting the will; advising about, and if necessary preparing, an advertisement for creditors; advising about, and if necessary applying for and receiving, a court's Certificate of Appointment of Estate Trustee (or "letters probate" or "letters of administration"); preparing documents for asset transfers; preparing notarial copies of documents; applying to court, if necessary, for the examination of and "passing" of estate accounts; preparing and receiving releases; and reporting to the estate trustee.

Plan Coverage For Lawyer's Work

If the estate trustee or the deceased (at the date of death) is (or was) an eligible Plan Participant, the Plan pays for the first two hours of lawyer time if a Staff Lawyer or Co-operating Lawyer is used. Fees for subsequent legal services are paid by you directly to your lawyer. If you choose, and if available, a Staff Lawyer or a Co-operating Lawyer will charge you $110.00 per hour.

If you use any lawyer who has not contracted with the Plan to provide services ("non-co-operating lawyer") you will pay whatever rate you have negotiated with that lawyer. The Plan will reimburse you up to $110.00 per hour for up to two hours.

B. ESTATE LITIGATION

If you are a beneficiary, a potential beneficiary or an estate trustee, the Plan provides a benefit for estate litigation (e.g. contesting the validity of a will).

The Plan pays for the first four hours of lawyer time (ten hours if the claim is greater than $3,000) if a Staff Lawyer or Co-operating Lawyer is used. Fees for subsequent legal services are paid by you directly to your lawyer. If you choose, and if available, a Staff Lawyer or a Co-operating Lawyer will charge you $110.00 per hour.

If you use any lawyer who has not contracted with the Plan to provide services ("non-co-operating lawyer") you will pay whatever rate you have negotiated with that lawyer. The Plan will reimburse you up to $110.00 per hour for up to four hours (ten hours if the claim is greater than $3,000).

In all cases disbursements, court filing fees and taxes are your responsibility.
